They will be the henored guest: of 50,000,500 of Americans, a vast number of which have tierman blood in their veins, and conscitute one of the most worthy and valuable elements that make up the strongth of the republic. Intensely devoted, with patriotic incluity to America, they certain and cherish and transmit most affectionately memories of fatheriand. To those the visit of Baron Steuben's relative will have something of a revival of family ties, while to all Americans, of whattwe tright, the presence of the German guests will afferd a titing opportunity of teatifying their seapeet for that great country within whose limits are included so much of human granteer and human progress. I am sit, your obselient servant, (Signed) JAMES G ULAINE. THE CONFEDERATE CONGRESS,

Visit to the Huilding where its first Session was held.

Morromens, July 13.—1 went up through the building and ground in the early natural where the first confederate congress convened on the 4th of February, 1861. There is not line pattern in the first confederate congress convened on the 4th of February, 1861. There is not line pattern whom that body met, or in the platry, substantial white building and its structuralings where the confederacy was horn. A risk to Montgomery and to this building naligially secalis many of the early sense of the war. It was here that Jefferson Boris was longurated president of the confederate states on the 18th of February 1861, four level days after the congress assented for the organization of the government. From the speed with which the logistative body completed its labors, its work might have been prearranged and the frame 1 took four deys to organize the direct consporenment. Probably no governmental organization was ever so quickly makined and delivered into executive hands as that of the so-saided Confederate bisses of America. Either the men who organized it had a better conception of the theory and practice of government than any other people on this earth, or olse had fully, matured their plans beforehand, or wore guided in it by some shellow minilargely impressed himself upon the work. It was a quoer government, however, which was founded upon the work so rapidly done inithis place and in the building which sits upon the hill back of it. In less than a year the governors of states were setting up itself antidrity against that of the chief executive of the confidency, and charging upon him the desire to organize a centralized povernment and to destroy the sovereignty of states.

SAHARA.

M. Soldflet, who has made several expeditions into Sahara, makes an interesting report of his discoveries. He found coal, sattperre, the butter here and a plant with all the properties of India rubber acceptalasticity, and the erties of India rubber except sizatioity, and the juice of which in its native state takes the place of pitch. He also found a region, about the size of Idaho, where there are lakes and excellent grass, with a healthy climate, and where there are now living 10,000 people, and beyond all is the mountainous districted Adear, inhabited by an agricultural and commercial population. So Bahara will saim ilke our "Great American Desert," have to be mostly given up. There is no doubt a great deal of poor land there, with now and here a said storm; but it is not much worse than southern Club and Novada, and will in another generation be crossed by realreads, and possibly the next great mining excitement will be on the very spot where, in our boy-hoods, fur train of camels was pictured as just about ovarcome in a sand storm. France already appreciates the great desert pretty well, and do possible camers was pictured as just about overcome in a sand storm. France already appreciates the great desert pretty well, and the possible wealth similaring there is one of the causes why France is now sending an army to Africa. She means to flack that desert part if the way around with a railroad, and then to drive the road straight across the remainder, and she means that the route shall have asfe one from horstle mea, at least. If said than fail exposed above the sand of that desert are often seen forest trees, long dead, protrupling. Forest ross do not dourn't without water, neither do bottler trees. All that means that not far below the sand there is plenty of water. If this is so the French will find it and utilize it. When we think what has been accomplished on this sole of the Rocky monitoring in 1884, we need not try to estimate what the next 30 years are going to bring about it it if by the end of that time it is possible to take a place can in Alguera and raved to the source of the Nio, it will not be a more womberful achievement than has been accomplished in our lay.
